

Biography

Julian Whitley, Teacher, Baltimore City School District

Julian Whitley is a Maryland native, having grown up in Baltimore County, and later attending the University of Maryland, College Park. By way of an internship with the National Aquarium, he was introduced to Living Classrooms and Masonville Cove, where after graduating he worked as an environmental educator. After working with multiple schools in the Southwest region of Baltimore City, Julian decided to make the transition to a classroom teacher and will be starting his first year as a Baltimore City school teacher this fall at Lakeland Elementary Middle School.